Aromatized wines and aromatized wine-based drinks: definition, description and presentation (amend. Regulation (EEC) No 1601/91)

OBJECTIVE: the proposal for a regulation aimed to amend the definition of aromatised wines to take account of certain traditional practices in some Member States. SUBSTANCE: the main amendments to Regulation 1601/91/EEC concerned: - the use of grape musts to supplement wines and the minimum wine content of aromatised wines and aromatised beverages; - clarification of the rules on the processing of aromatised wines; - the definition of Glühwein. ?

Aromatized wines and aromatized wine-based drinks: definition, description and presentation (amend. Regulation (EEC) No 1601/91)

The Committee on Agriculture adopted the report by Mr MARTIN. As regards the definition, the committee felt that it should refer to a traditional, non-industrial product and that, as a result, the proposal to prohibit the addition of water should be maintained. ?

Aromatized wines and aromatized wine-based drinks: definition, description and presentation (amend. Regulation (EEC) No 1601/91)

The rapporteur, Mr MARTIN (EDN, F), called for the deletion of the words 'subject to possible enrichment with non-vine products' when referring to wines or must used in the preparation of aromatised wine, which must be present in the finished product in a proportion of not less than 75%. Commissioner Fischler accepted this amendment. However, he rejected the proposal that sought to permit only dry sugar to be used as a sweetener for Glühwein, taking the view that the liquid sugar normally used for the preparation of Glühwein contained very little water.

In adopting the report by Mr Philippe-Armand MARTIN (EDN, F), the European Parliament approved the amendment of Regulation (EEC) No 1601/91 on aromatized wines. The EP strengthened the text by proposing the deletion of the words 'before possible enrichment with non-vine products' in the case of wines and musts used in the preparation of aromatized wine which must be present in the finished product in a proportion of not less than 75%. On the other hand, the EP rejected the amendments to forbid the addition of water to the wine base and to limit the possibilities for sweetening Glühwein to sugar.

Aromatized wines and aromatized wine-based drinks: definition, description and presentation (amend. Regulation (EEC) No 1601/91)

The common position of the Council incorporated, in whole or in part, the three amendments adopted by the European Parliament at first reading. The Council also made additional changes to the Commission proposal at the request of national delegations: - inclusion of a reference to 'quality wines produced in specified regions' in the definition of 'Kalte Ente'; - a different formulation of the definition of 'Glühwein' to prohibit the addition of water except for the purpose of possible sweetening by means of liquid substances, and inclusion of transitional measures concerning this point (until 31/08/98); - amendment of the definition of 'Viinigloogi/Vinglõgg' to permit sweetening with all the substances referred to in Art. 3(a); - insertion of synonyms for certain descriptions and indications referred to in the Italian text of Art. 2(2) and (5) of Regulation (EEC) No 91/1601; - inclusion of 'Thüringer Glühwein' among the geographical denominations listed in Annex II to the Regulation. ?

The report is on the order of business for the next sitting in July.?

Aromatized wines and aromatized wine-based drinks: definition, description and presentation (amend. Regulation (EEC) No 1601/91)

Welcoming the fact that the three amendments adopted by Parliament at first reading had been taken over in the common position, the rapporteur, Mr MARTIN (UPE, F), also pointed out that the concept of the "traditional product" had been developed by the Council; he therefore recommended that the common position should be approved. Commissioner Fischler welcomed the level of agreement reached between Parliament and the Council.
