EC, ECSC/Israel agreement: interim agreement on trade

- OBJECTIVE: conclusion of an interim agreement on trade and accompanying measures between the European Union and Israel. -
SUBSTANCE: The agreement essentially concerns trading relations between the European Union and Israel and contains major reciprocal commitments in the agricultural sector, together with provisions for the adaptation of the original rules and the closer alignment of disciplines in respect of competition. The agreement does not cover political dialogue, rights of establishment and provision of services, movement of capital, payments, public contracts, scientific and technological cooperation, economic and cultural cooperation, areas which are included in the EU-Israel Association Agreement (AVC95276). The agreement replaces the commercial provisions of the EU-Israel Cooperation Agreement and those of the ECSC-Israel Agreement, both of which date back to 1975. The agreement is to come into force on 01.01.1996. ?

EC, ECSC/Israel agreement: interim agreement on trade

In adopting the report by Mr De CLERCQ (ELDR, B), the European Parliament approved the conclusion of the interim agreement on trade with Israel. ?

EC, ECSC/Israel agreement: interim agreement on trade

The Council and the Commission decided to conclude an Interim Agreement on trade and trade-related matters between the European Community and the European Coal and Steel Community, of the one part, and the State of Israel, of the other part. The Council decided on 8 December to sign this Agreement, and it was signed on 18 December 1995. The European Parliament, consulted on an optional basis, delivered its opinion at its December 1995 part-session.
