Medium-term financial assistance mechanism for Member States' balances of payments. Report

OBJECTIVE: this Commission report is intended to serve as a basis for the re-examination by the Council of the medium-term financial assistance mechanism to Member States in relation to balance of payments. This mechanism is currently governed by Regulation 88/1969/EEC. SUBSTANCE: since the last review by the Council the facility was used once, in favour of Italy, in January 1993. At its request this country was granted by the Council a loan of ECU 8 billion (in four tranches) in order to support its balance of payments and to put in place an economic programme of adjustment and reforms. Only the first two tranches (ECU 4 billion in total) were used as the subsequent improvement of the balance of payments situation made unnecessary the disbursement of the remaining tranches. The Commission considers that, as in the past, the facility played a useful role by providing rapidly considerable financial assistance and by strengthening market confidence on the capacity of this Member State to remedy the situation. The Commission, therefore, considers that the present facility should remain unchanged and should be reviewed again before the end of 1998 in the light of developments until then, notably the decisions on the participants in the single currency from the start of the third stage. ?

Medium-term financial assistance mechanism for Member States' balances of payments. Report

Member States with balance of payments problems can receive medium-term financial assistance from the EU. According to the Treaty, this mechanism will cease to apply for Member States joining the EMU but the Committee, in a report drafted by Mr Alman METTEN (PES, NL), underlines that this "useful and necessary" instrument for monetary stability must be retained for Member States not joining the EMU from the beginning. Furthermore, the Treaty opens up a possibility for a Community loan instrument also during the third stage of the EMU, but this possibility has not yet been explored by the Commission. Noting that such support might be necessary to avoid turmoil, the Commission is called upon to draw up a proposal for a regulation on an assistance facility to promote economic and monetary stability by helping Member States having difficulties through Community guaranteed loans. The Committee recommends that this new instrument should be based on the existing assistance for balance of payments problems.?

Medium-term financial assistance mechanism for Member States' balances of payments. Report

In adopting the report by Mr METTEN (PSE, NL), Parliament argued that the facility for providing assistance for balance of payments is useful and should be maintained for those Member States which will not be participating in EMU from the outset. It pointed out that the Treaty has opened up the possibility of a Community loan instrument for the third stage of EMU and called on the Commission to draw up a proposal for a regulation for an assistance facility to help Member States facing balance-of-payments difficulties. ?
