OJ L 262 22.09.2006, p. 0051-0058 Summary

UN Convention against transnational organised crime: protocol to prevent, suppress and punish trafficking in persons, especially women and children

PURPOSE : to conclude, on behalf of the EC, the Protocol to prevent, suppress and punish trafficking in persons, especially women and children, supplementing the UN Convention Against Transnational Organised Crime (UNTOC). CONTENT : in its Resolution 53/111 of 9 December 1998, the United Nations' General Assembly (UNGA) decided to establish a committee charged with elaborating a Convention against transnational organised crime (UNTOC), supplemented by three Protocols: - to prevent, suppress and punish trafficking in persons, especially women and children (Trafficking Protocol); - against the smuggling of migrants by land, air and sea (Smuggling Protocol); - against the illicit manufacturing of and trafficking in firearms, their parts and components and ammunition (Firearms Protocol). On 12 December 2000, the EC signed three instruments in Palermo, along with all EU Member States. The Firearms Protocol was signed by the EC on 16 January 2002. UNTOC enters into force on 29 September 2003. The Trafficking Protocol has not yet entered into force. It requires ratification by at least 40 States. A regional economic integration organisation cannot ratify the UNTOC (or a Protocol) before at least one of its Member States has already done so. Of the 15 EU Member States, Spain and France have already deposited a document of ratification for the UNTOC and the Smuggling and Trafficking Protocols with the UN Secretariat General; the other Member States are still in the process of ratification. Draft decisions to conclude, on behalf of the EC, the UNCTOD and the Smuggling Protocol, are presented in parallel with his proposal. (See CNS/2003/0195 and CNS/2003/0196.) The Protocol's provision on measures to be taken at borders includes the possibility of a closer co-operation between border control authorities and the imposition of sanctions against carriers. These measures are of a standard that complies with the acquis communautaire. The Protocol also contains provisions requiring the Contracting Parties to control the security and quality of their travel and identity documents, including visa, and to verify the legitimacy and validity of such documents where there is a suspicion that they are being used for the purposes of trafficking in persons or the smuggling of migrants. The Protocol also includes a saving clause stating that the provisions of the Protocol are without prejudice to the obligations of States under International law, including the 1951 Geneva Convention and the 1967 Protocol relating to the status of refugees and the principle of non-refoulement contained therein. Finally, the Protocol's obligations for States with regard to facilitating and accepting the return and repatriation of persons who are their own nationals or holding a permanent residence authorisation for their territories are in line with the Community's ongoing negotiations on the conclusion of agreements with third countries on the readmission of persons illegally entering or staying on the territories of Member States. The United Kingdom, Ireland and Denmark are not bound by the provisions of the Trafficking Protocol which are subject to Community competence. The Trafficking Protocol is the first global instrument on the fight against transnational organised crime and smuggling of migrants. It sets a very useful multilateral framework and a variety of important minimum standards for all participating States.?

UN Convention against transnational organised crime: protocol to prevent, suppress and punish trafficking in persons, especially women and children

PURPOSE : to amend the proposed Council Decision on the conclusion, on behalf of the European Community, of the Protocol against the smuggling of migrants by land, sea and air, supplementing the United Nations Convention Against Transnational Organised Crime, in light of the numerous Community legislative acts which have been adopted since the presentation of the initial proposal by the Commission in 2003.

PROPOSED ACT : Council Decision.

CONTENT : since the Commission proposed, in August 2003, the conclusion, on behalf of the European Community, of the protocol against organised crime, the protocol against the smuggling of migrants and the protocol against trafficking in persons, the only proposal relating to the Convention was adopted by the Council on 27 April 2004 (see CNS/2003/0195). The proposals concerning the protocol against the smuggling of migrants and the trafficking of persons still have blocked due to discussions between the Council and the Commission on the scope of Community competence with regard to these protocols.

Having regard to the adoption of a series of legislative instruments on the areas covered by the two protocols and adopted in 2004, it is proposed, on the one hand, to include articles 66, 179 and 181 A of the EC Treaty to the legal basis for the conclusion of the protocols, and on the other hand, to bring about the necessary amendments to the textual description of the Community competence in the declaration of competence annexed to the draft Council Decisions.

The legislative instruments concerned are as follows :

Article 66 of the EC Treaty:

- § Council Regulation 377/2004/EC on the creation of an immigration liaison officers network ?Immigration? : concerns Article 10 of the protocol against the smuggling of migrants and Article 10 of the protocol against trafficking in persons;
- § Council Decision 2004/512/EC establishing a visa information system (VIS) : concerns Article 10 of the protocol against the smuggling of migrants and Article 10 and 11 of the protocol against trafficking in persons;
- § Council Regulation 2007/2004/EC of 26 October 2004 establishing a European Agency for the Management of Operational Cooperation at the External Borders of the Member States of the European Union : concerns Articles 10, 14 and 18 of the protocol against smuggling of migrants and Articles 8 and 10 of the protocol against trafficking in persons.

Articles 179 and 181 A of the EC Treaty: Regulation 491/2004/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council establishing a technical and financial assistance programme to third countries in the areas of migration and asylum (AENEAS programme) : concerns Articles 14 and 15 of the protocol against the smuggling of migrants and articles 9 and 10 of the protocol against the trafficking in persons.

UN Convention against transnational organised crime: protocol to prevent, suppress and punish trafficking in persons, especially women and children

On 22 August 2003, the Commission transmitted a proposal to the Council for a Council Decision on the conclusion, on behalf of the European Community, of the United Nations Convention Against Transnational Organised Crime and of two Protocols to that Convention.

On 17 October 2003, the Council decided to consult the European Parliament on this proposal and asked the European Parliament for its opinion. On 13 January 2004, the Parliament approved the conclusion of the United Nations Convention Against Transnational Organised Crime (UNTOC) and the two Protocols. In view of the important changes that have been made to the text of the original Commission proposals, it will be necessary to reconsult the Parliament.

On 29 April 2004, the Council adopted a Decision authorising the Commission to conclude the UN Convention against Organised Crime (CNS/2003/0195). No agreement was reached on the draft Council decisions for the conclusion by the Community of two Protocols to UNTOC (CNS/2003/0196 and CNS/2003/0197).

On 18 October 2005, the Commission transmitted to the Council two amended proposals on the conclusion, on behalf of the European Community, of the Protocol Against the Smuggling of Migrants by Land, Sea and Air and the Protocol to Prevent, Suppress and Punish Trafficking in Persons, Especially Women And Children, supplementing the United Nations Convention Against Transnational Organised Crime.

Further to the discussions on these proposals in the Multidisciplinary group on organised crime and after having consulted the Legal Services of the Council and the Commission, the Presidency, in an effort to take this file forward presented a revised draft of the above Council Decisions. It was deemed expedient, for each of the two protocols, to have two separate Council decisions:

- § one for matters covered by Part III, Title IV of the Treaty establishing the European Community;
- § one for matters covered by Articles 179 and 181a of that Treaty.

This was done in view of the particular position of Denmark. The two separated proposals for each Protocol contain the same declaration of competence.

Following the discussions at the Multidisciplinary group on organised crime on 8 February 2006, the JHA Counsellors meeting of 28 February 2006 and the CATS meeting of 8 March 2006, consensus was reached on these agreements at the Coreper meeting of 29 March 2006.

As a consequence, the Council presents a revised and consolidated version of these texts which the Parliament is now called upon to examine.

UN Convention against transnational organised crime: protocol to prevent, suppress and punish trafficking in persons, especially women and children

The committee adopted the report by its chair, Jean-Marie CAVADA (ALDE, FR), approving the amended proposal on the conclusion of the Protocol to Prevent, Suppress and Punish Trafficking in Persons, Especially Women and Children, supplementing the UN Convention Against Transnational Organised Crime. The amended proposal had been submitted to Parliament for reconsultation.

The Protocol's provision on measures to be taken at borders includes the possibility of a closer co-operation between border control authorities and the imposition of sanctions against carriers. These measures are of a standard that complies with the acquis communautaire. The Protocol also contains provisions requiring the Contracting Parties to control the security and quality of their travel and identity documents, including visa, and to verify the legitimacy and validity of such documents where there is a suspicion that they are being used for the purposes of trafficking in persons or the smuggling of migrants. The Protocol also includes a saving clause stating that the provisions of the Protocol are without prejudice to the obligations of States under International law, including the 1951 Geneva Convention and the 1967 Protocol relating to the status of refugees and the principle of non-refoulement.

Finally, the Protocol's obligations for States with regard to facilitating and accepting the return and repatriation of persons who are their own nationals or holding a permanent residence authorisation for their territories are in line with the Community's position on the conclusion of agreements with third countries on the readmission of persons illegally entering or staying on the territories of Member States. The United Kingdom, Ireland and Denmark are not bound by the provisions of the Trafficking Protocol which are subject to Community competence.
