Resolution on the situation in Egypt

The Council discussed the situation in Egypt and Tunisia and adopted the following conclusions:

1. Egypt: the Council recognizes the legitimate democratic aspirations and grievances of the Egyptian population. The Council states that these should be listened to carefully and addressed through urgent, concrete and decisive measures. It deeply regrets the considerable loss of life during demonstrations in Egypt over the last few days. The Council calls on all parties to show restraint and avoid further violence. It urges the Egyptian authorities to immediately release all peaceful demonstrators who have been detained. The Council also calls upon the Egyptian authorities to restore all communication networks without delay and to guarantee unhindered access to all media, including the Internet.

The Egyptian authorities are urged to:

- respect and protect human rights including freedom of assembly and freedom of expression and to take appropriate measures to assure the security of all citizens and their property and to protect the cultural heritage;
- seek a peaceful and constructive way forward based on a serious and open dialogue with all political forces ready to abide by democratic norms and with civil society;
- embark on an orderly transition through a broad-based government leading to a genuine process of substantial democratic reform with full respect for the rule of law, human rights and fundamental freedoms, paving the way for free and fair elections.

The Council reiterates its support for a democratic, pluralist and stable Egypt as a key partner of the EU, mindful of its important regional role, and sharing the goal of building stability, peace and prosperity in the Mediterranean and Middle East region. Lastly, it states that the EU is committed to accompanying the Egyptian transformation process by mobilising, reviewing and adapting existing instruments to support political, economic and social reforms.

2) Tunisia: congratulating the courage and determination of the Tunisian people and their peaceful struggle for their rights and democratic aspirations, the Council deplores the violence of repression and loss of life during recent events. It reaffirms its full solidarity with Tunisia for the establishment of a stable democracy, the rule of law and democratic pluralism in full respect of human rights and fundamental freedoms. It states that the partnership between Tunisia and the European Union should be strengthened.

The Council also welcomes:

- commitments made by the transitional government on the release of political prisoners, the legalisation of democratic political parties and associations, and open up the sphere of civil society and the media;
- the decision to hold, as soon as possible, presidential and free legislative elections (the EU is ready in this context, to provide political support and legal assistance, technical and material to the preparation and organisation the election process);
- the decision to shed light on the facts of violence that occurred during the protests and on corruption.

The Council also adopted conclusions stating the EU's readiness to mobilise all its instruments in support of the democratic transition in Tunisia, including assistance for holding elections. This issue of updating and reinforcing its strategy and assistance for Tunisia under the European Neighbourhood Policy in order to reflect the new situation and the aspirations of the Tunisian people was discussed. The Council adopted targeted restrictive measures, in consultation with the Tunisian authorities, against individuals responsible for diverting public funds.

The House held a debate, following on the statement by the Vice-President of the Commission and High Representative of the Union for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy, on the situation in the Mediterranean, in particular in Tunisia and Egypt.

Motions for a resolutions closing this debate were due to be put to the vote on 3 February 2011 (Tunisia), and at the next part-session (Egypt).

Following the debate which took place during the sitting of 2 February 2011, the European Parliament adopted a resolution on the situation in Egypt.

The resolution had been tabled by the EPP, ECR, Greens/ALE, S&D, and ALDE groups.

It expresses its solidarity with the Egyptian people, applauds their courage and determination, with special regard to the young generation, and strongly supports their legitimate democratic aspirations. Members consider that the standing down of President Hosni Mubarak has opened up a new phase in the political transition in Egypt, and they call for a genuine national political dialogue to be launched immediately with the participation of all key political and civil-society actors. The aim should be to pave the way for lifting the state of emergency, revision of the Constitution and the electoral law, free and fair elections, a democratically elected civilian government and genuine democracy in Egypt.

Parliament calls on the Egyptian armed forces to play a constructive role in avoiding further violence and to facilitate the political process. It takes note of the decisions of the Supreme Council of the Armed Forces to suspend the Constitution, dissolve the parliament, establish a committee, which must include independent members, to amend articles of the Constitution, hold a popular referendum on these amendments, and hold parliamentary and presidential elections. All political and civil-society actors should be involved in order to reach a national consensus. Members stress the importance of considerably accelerating economic and social reforms in Egypt, as freedom, economic development and a higher standard of living are essential for political and social stability in the country.

The EU and its Member States are called upon to support actively a rapid transition towards a peaceful, pluralist and just Egypt and help democratic political forces and civil-society organisations in Egypt to organise themselves in order to be able to participate fully in the transition to democracy. Egyptian authorities are asked to ensure that Coptic Christian communities do not fall victim to current events and that all religious communities can live in peace and freely express their beliefs throughout the country. Parliament calls on the High Representative to promote the setting-up of a task force involving the European Parliament which can meet the need for support for the democratic transition process as expressed by those working for democratic change, in particular as regards free and democratic elections and institution-building, including developing an independent judiciary. It calls on the High Representative to support the democratic transformation also by sending an electoral observation mission to forthcoming elections;

Parliament emphasises in its resolution that events in Egypt, and in other countries in the region, highlight again the urgent need to develop more ambitious and efficient policies and instruments as well as to strengthen their budgetary background to encourage and support political, economic and social reforms in the EU's southern neighbourhood. It states that the quest for stability has often overshadowed the values of democracy, social justice and human rights in the EU's and its Member States' relations with southern neighbours in the past years. Human rights clauses in Association Agreements should be systematically backed up by a mechanism to implement those clauses; having regard in this context to the ongoing and necessary review of the European Neighbourhood Policy (ENP). The Strategic Review of the ENP must reflect current developments in the region and must come up with new improved ways to meet the needs and aspirations of the peoples. Members insist that the review of the ENP must prioritise criteria relating to the independence of the judiciary, respect for fundamental freedoms, pluralism and freedom of the press, and the fight against corruption, and they call on the Council to define a set of political criteria that ENP countries must fulfil in order to be granted 'advanced status'. The current Action Plans must be radically revised with the inclusion of clear priorities accompanied by incentives for political reforms.

Furthermore, Members reiterate their demand for the EU to revise its democracy and human rights support policy so as to create an implementation mechanism for the human rights clause in all agreements with third countries. They call for strengthening of the crucial EU financial instruments for external action for the region, notably the ENPI, the EIDHR and the Stability Instrument, in order to enable them to be used effectively in these exceptional circumstances. Parliament underlines that democratic scrutiny of these financial instruments by the European Parliament must be ensured.

It goes on to state that the Union for the Mediterranean, which was supposed to enhance the EU's policy in the region, proved ineffective to counter the growing mistrust and meet the basic needs of the people concerned. The resolution calls on the Union for the Mediterranean to act on recent events in order to put forward proposals on how to best promote democracy and human rights in its Member States and in the region and on possible reforms in order to make its own role stronger and more efficient. Parliament calls on the Anna Lindh Euro-Mediterranean Foundation to play an urgent and active role in mobilising the civil society of the Euro-Med region for the promotion of citizenship and participation.

Members move on to recognise the crucial role of Egypt in the Arab world and in the Middle East Peace Process and the importance of the Peace Agreement with Israel. They call on Egypt to remain committed to playing an active and constructive role to find lasting peace in the Middle East with a particular focus on the Israeli-Palestinian conflict and Palestinian reconciliation, and call for the Egypt-Israel peace treaty to be maintained.

Lastly, Parliament welcomes Council Implementing Decision 2011/79/CFSP and Council Regulation (EU) No 101/2011 imposing the freezing of assets owned or controlled by persons deemed to be responsible for the misappropriation of state funds in Tunisia and persons associated with them and calls on the Council to adopt the same measures as regards all responsible persons in Egypt.
