Regulation 1995/150 OJ L 022 31.01.1995, p. 0001-0004 Summary

Unit of account and the conversion rates to be applied for the purposes of the CAP

Regulation (EEC) No 3813/92, amended by Regulation (EEC) No 3528/93, which governs the current agrimonetary arrangements, contains different elements which become null and void on 31 December 1994, namely the switch-over mechanism and the current system for adjusting the agricultural conversion rates, which seeks to prevent any monetary difference greater than 5 points. The Commission's proposals on the system which will come into force on 1 January 1995 involve modifications in three areas: 1) the switch-over system, that is to say the factor of 1.207509 which reflects the difference between the green ecu (in which agricultural prices are fixed) and the commercial ecu, which has been designed to guarantee agricultural revenues in any Member State which undertakes a re-evaluation, while allowing farmers in other Member States to obtain higher amounts. The Commission proposes: - to abandon this mechanism at the end of 1994 and to set agricultural prices in commercial ecus as from 1 January 1995; prices shall continue to be converted into national currencies at "green rates", but the latter shall be fixed in relation to the commercial ecu and not to the agricultural ecu; - to remove the current possibility of reintroducing the switch-over system, pointing out that this mechanism is incompatible with the reform of the CAP, the agreements which have been concluded under the GATT agreement and the medium-term financial discipline. 2) the system for adjusting agricultural conversion rates, which has until now not been symmetrical but rather based on a ratio of +3/-2, may be extended to +5/0 in order to avoid any re-evaluation of the agricultural rates. The Commission proposes introducing a symmetrical allowance and limiting the mobility of this allowance in order to avoid any unnecessary expenditure and reduce the frequency of the devaluations caused by certain overprotective measures designed to offset falls in the agricultural conversion rate (ACR). The agricultural rates may in principle be adjusted if the monetary gap exceeds 4.5 points. In the event of strong currency levels (positive monetary gap) the value shall be reduced by one half when the monetary gap is greater than 4.5 points during two successive reference periods. In the case of weak currency rates the monetary gap is reduced by half if it is greater than 4.5 points during one reference period. In addition, if the difference between the gap for a weak currency and that for another currency (otherwise known as the bilateral gap) is greater than 5 points, the gap for the first of these shall be reduced by half. 3) the revision of compensation mechanisms which may be implemented in the event of re-evaluation. Before any reduction in the agricultural conversion rates, it is proposed that there will be a short period during which monetary trends are confirmed. There will also be a suspensive period for ACR reductions in the event of an "appreciable" re-evaluation (that is to say, one which exceeds the previous devaluations, taking into consideration the intervening period). In addition, the possibilities for triggering compensation measures shall be limited to instances involving "appreciable" re-evaluation, and the principle of the graduated and transitional aid mechanism shall be extended to aid per hectare or per animal, whereby the possibility for introducing short-term measures is also provided for. According to the proposed system, a Member State may grant compensation to farmers for a period of three years when the agricultural rate which applies to aid for stabilization is appreciably re-evaluated. The aid is only granted to farmers who have been the victim of a reduction, and it shall be withdrawn or reduced in the event of a subsequent devaluation. The European Community contribution to the financing of the compensatory aid scheme shall amount to 75% for regions covered by Objective I (Guarantee section) and 50% in other cases. ?

Unit of account and the conversion rates to be applied for the purposes of the CAP

Parliament approved the Commission's proposal subject to the eleven amendments it had introduced. The aims of these were: - to include in the recitals a reference to Article 39 of the Treaty which sets as an objective of the common agricultural policy that of ensuring that the farming community has an equitable standard of living; The Commission rejected the amendment. - to underline that the switch-over mechanism had led to a 20% increase in prices between 1982 and 1994 and that it was essential to return to a system which was more market based; The Commission rejected this amendment. - to point out that if the mobilization of the monetary reserve provided by the budget proved necessary in the event of agricultural expenditure exceeding the guidelines as a result of modifications to the EMS pivot rate, the Commission should initiate the procedures provided for under point 15 of the Interinstitutional Agreement of 29 October 1993; The Commission rejected this amendment. - to withdraw the 0.5 point reduction applying to the allowance referred to in Paragraph 5; The Commission accepted this amendment. - to withdraw the provision contained in Article 7, point 9, concerning the increase in ecus of the aid or amounts in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 12, and provided for in the event that the agricultural conversion rate applying to an amount of a structural or environmental nature should undergo an appreciable fall; The Commission accepted this amendment. - to extend from three to four years the period during which the Member States can grant compensatory aid to farmers; The Commission rejected this amendment. - to withdraw the mechanism for the reduction in successive annual instalments provided for when the agricultural conversion rate, as applicable to flat-rate aid determined by hectare or by unit of large livestock, and to compensatory premiums for sheep and goats, undergoes an appreciable fall; The Commission accepted this amendment. - to delete paragraph 3 of Article 8 of the proposal; The Commission accepted this amendment. - to increase to 100 % the Commission's contribution to the financing of the compensatory aid which is effectively granted to farmers; The Commission rejected this amendment. - to give the Council responsibility for taking all necessary measures in the event of an appreciable revaluation, while authorizing the former to implement the necessary derogations in order to ensure that the agreements concluded under the GATT and the budgetary discipline arrangements were respected; these derogations should however not lead to an increase in the allowance; The Commission accepted this amendment. ?
